

Credentialing Overview

HepQuant develops and markets advanced, non-invasive, quantitative liver function tests to help healthcare providers manage patients with chronic liver disease more effectively.

HepQuant DuO test is a blood-based, first-in-class, functional test to assess liver health across the disease continuum. This test measures cholate clearance, a liver-specific function that directly quantifies liver function and physiology. This unique approach gives physicians information about liver cell function, portal hypertension, and portal-systemic shunting, attributes of liver disease associated with clinical outcomes. HepQuant DuO results adjunctively help to stratify a patient's clinical risk, monitor treatment response, and predict disease progression and adverse outcomes, such as ascites, encephalopathy, and variceal bleeding.
